Course description: ANS 2002- This three-hour course fulfills the core curriculum requirement for biological sciences (B). Courses in the biological sciences introduce students to the basic concepts of science and the scientific method and enhance awareness of scientific developments and their impact on society and the environment. This class provides students with an understanding of scientific terms, concepts and theories involving animals and the products they produce. This will allow students to formulate empirically testable hypotheses relative to the safety, quality, humaneness and sustainability of muscle food production. The Meat We Eat is a non-ANS major lecture course designed to create a more informed consumer of animal muscle products and address current issues in animal agriculture. The lectures will cover all aspects of animal protein production, processing and retailing, as well as the role of animal muscle protein in the diet. Students will understand proper selection, preparation, cooking and storage of animal protein products and their influence on food safety and palatability. Students will develop an appreciation for meat and muscle chemistry and composition, muscle growth and contraction.

General Education Student Learning Outcomes:

Know the basic concepts, theories and terminology of animal, meat, and food science and apply the scientific method to meat animal production.

Know the major scientific developments within animal, meat, and food science and the impacts on society and the environment.

Know relevant processes of physiology and biochemistry within animal, meat, and food science which impact food safety and quality.

Know the role of muscle foods in a balanced diet.

Know the role of meat animal production and muscle foods in feeding a growing world population. Students will develop the ability to formulate empirically testable hypotheses relative to the safety, quality, humaneness and sustainability of muscle food production.

Students will be asked to take facts presented in class and synthesize a written answer for real world questions.

Students will learn the chain of production, including grading, processing and merchandising for major meat animal species

Course grading: There will be no makeup questions of the day or examinations. Points of the day will be assessed on at least 20 days. For students with an authorized excuse, the grade for a missed major examination will be determined by averaging the scores for the major examinations that were taken.

Grades Based on the Followin	g:
Points of the Day	40	5%
Four Exams (100 each)	400	50%
Unit assignments (16 each)	160	20%
Production claim assignment	120	15%
Meat cookery video	80	10%
Total	800

Letter Grades Will Be Determined as Follows:
А	90 & Above	С	70 - 74.99
B+	85 -89.99	D+	65 - 69.99
В	80 - 84.99	D	60 - 64.99

Meat Safety

Livestock species can carry microorganisms that can cause diarrhea and flu-like symptoms in humans. These microorganisms can be shed in an animal's feces and saliva. These organisms of concern such as Salmonella, Campylobacter, and E.coli can survive on the animal's hide or surroundings, and though unlikely could be present in/on meat. These pathogens can cause significant illness, especially to someone who is immunocompromised. Students should wash their hands after handling livestock and/or raw meat.

Digital devices (cell phones, iPads, laptops)

Students are asked to silence their cellular phones before entering the classroom. Unless students are taking notes on their laptops, laptops should be OFF during class. If students are found to be Facebooking or texting, they will be asked to turn off their digital device.

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at https://evaluations.ufl.edu. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/

In-Class Recording suggested wording:

• Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A "class lecture" is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To "publish" means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student

Students with Disabilities

The Disability Resource Center coordinates the needed accommodations of students with disabilities. This includes registering disabilities, recommending academic accommodations within the classroom, accessing special adaptive computer equipment, providing interpretation services and mediating facultystudent disability related issues.

Software Use

All faculty, staff and students of the university are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations are also against university policies and rules, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate.

Academic Honesty

On all work submitted for credit by students at the university, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment." The Honor Code (http://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.
