Course Overview and Objectives

At this point students are now professionals and should be able to communicate effectively about animal industry issues. The Animal Sciences Senior Seminar is designed to bring together several aspects of the undergraduate education. Aspects of speaking, writing, and synthesis of concepts to inform and educate peers about issues in the animal sciences are keys to a seminar class. To that end, students will be required to use facts and empirical evidence to introduce a topic and present an argument for or against an issue that affects the animal sciences. Additionally, students will evaluate the presentation of the argument of their peers to provide constructive feedback.

Course Assignments

Student participation in Senior Seminar will involve several assigned duties. These include, (1) participate in a 2-person team to deliver an oral presentation on an assigned topic, (2) submit a weekly written summary of the presentation, and (3) being present and attentive at each class. Participation will be assessed through the active use of iClicker (free to UF students) responses to questions throughout the class period.

The intent of the class period is to have a Pro-Con/Yes-No style discussion for each topic. The idea is that each topic has potential validity in both a "yes, because...." and a "no, because...." approach. While you may not support a given side of an issue, it is important to be able to objectively assess multiple aspects of the issue of interest. Therefore, the presentation will be evaluated for the effort given in synthesizing an argument. Student are expected to take an active role in the class. Depending on time remaining, instructors will ask leading questions to individual students. Discussion is intended to round out the presentations and reflect on the complexity of the topic and how it affects society.

1. Presentations will be In-Person in the classroom. Presentations will be constructed and delivered in a 2-person team. The Team will research, construct using PowerPoint, and deliver a 30 min oral presentation on a randomly assigned topic during the assigned class period. The presentation should be uploaded on canvas (https://elearning.ufl.edu/) 24 hours prior to the assigned date of the presentation. Each student on the Team must participate in the presentation; which will involve three aspects, (1) introduction of the topic, (2) a position for (Pro) the issue, and (3) a position against (Con) the issue. If the presentation effort is divided appropriately, each person would speak for approximately 12 to 15 minutes. Citations of supporting facts should be included verbally and in citation within the presentation. At the end of the presentation, the instructors will lead a discussion involving questions to both the Presentation Team and other students. Professional dress is expected. See scoring rubric for further detail on how presentations will be evaluated. Presentation Teams, topics, and dates will be drawn at random by the instructors in the first week of class.

- 2. Students will construct a written summary of each week's topic. At a minimum, the summary will include; (1) a brief overview of the issue, (2) a synopsis of the Pro and Con side of the issue, and (3) an additional contributions that you feel would enhance a better understanding of the issue in the eye of the public (i.e. consumer) and/or producer (i.e. livestock industry). The summary must not exceed 750 words. The written summary will be uploaded on canvas (https://elearning.ufl.edu/) no later than 5 days after the conclusion of the class (120 hours). Late submissions will receive a 20% reduction of score every 24-h the submission is late. Summaries will not be accepted from students that are either not present or not participating in the class. See the scoring rubric for further details.
- 3. Throughout the class period, students will be presented with questions that will engage their input or perception of the topic being presented. Responses will be collected using iClicker (free to UF Students). In addition, student engagement is encouraged by asking questions to the Presentation Team and responding to questions posed by the Instructors.

Make-up Policy

Given the limited opportunity for make-up presentations based on the time in the semester, make-up presentations will only be allowed in EXTREME cases and at the discretion of the instructor. If you know you have a conflict with your assigned dates, find someone to switch with and all students need to inform the instructor via email. For university policy on this topic, see: https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/
